2.1.- Consequences of withdrawal of consent or opposition to the processing of your data. Mandatory and optional fields.

In the event that you are requested at any time to consent the processing of your data for a purpose that requires your consent, your failure to grant your consent (or its subsequent withdrawal) will not have any consequences for you in any case. Nor will your opposition to the processing of your data for purposes based on legitimate interest have any kind of consequence.

In some forms you will clearly see that some fields are marked as mandatory (with an asterisk) while the rest are absolutely voluntary. Therefore, not filling in voluntary fields will not have any consequence, and you can complete them if you are interested in it.

3.- CATEGORIES OF PERSONAL DATA WE MAY COLLECT ABOUT YOU.

Through the various means of contact (email, telephone, fax...), the forms enabled on our website, identification and contact data will be collected, such as name, surname, email address, telephone number, etc. In a specific form, you can send us additional information (e.g., reason for the inquiry, additional information, cv...).

Finally, depending on your preferences with cookies, the configuration of your device when accessing the page or the communications that we send you, we may record your browsing on our website obtaining information about your behaviour and interests and we may also know the opening of commercial communications.

4.- RECIPIENTS.

In general, unless legally obliged to do so, your data will not be communicated or transferred to any third party without your prior express consent. In any case, some communications and/or transfers of data to third parties may be imposed by certain regulations or to meet obligations to the Public Administrations in cases where this is required in accordance with the legislation in force at any given time.

Other communications and/or transfers will be a necessary consequence of the provision of the requested service, management of the event or as a result of your express consent to the communication. Below, we list those purposes for which it may be necessary to communicate your data to third parties:

- Job bank. Your data may be transferred to the entities associated with CNTA in order to include your CV in its job bank to cover possible future incorporations and/or collaborations with such entity.
- Sending communications and newsletters, forms and surveys. In this case, your data will be communicated to the company that owns the technological solution used for this purpose, so that it can carry out the sending and measuring functions that have been entrusted to it.
- Hosting of the website. The data hosted on our website will be communicated to the company that provides us with the web hosting service.

5.- DATA SUBJECT RIGHTS.

With respect to the personal data collected for processing, you have the possibility of exercising your rights of access, rectification, deletion and portability. Likewise, in certain circumstances, you will have the right to request the limitation of or opposition to the processing of your data, in which case the Data Controller will cease to process them and will only keep them in the event that there is a regulatory obligation to do so or until the prescription of any actions that may arise. For any queries or to exercise your rights, you can contact us by providing proof of your identity by emailing cnta@cnta.com or by any of the contact methods indicated in the heading of this data protection policy. You can also contact our Data Protection Officer at the following e-mail address: rgpd@cnta.com

Finally, you may also contact the supervisory authority when you consider it appropriate to lodge a complaint (for example, in the country where you have your habitual residence, your place of work or where you consider that the alleged infringement has taken place). For the appropriate purposes, we inform you that in Spain the Supervisory Authority is the Spanish Data Protection Agency, and you can exercise your rights through the forms that this entity has set up for this purpose and which are available at its electronic office.

If you would like more information on the aforementioned rights, we invite you to read on or visit the infographic prepared by the Spanish Data Protection Agency.

You may address your complaint or exercise your rights through any of the contact channels indicated in the “Identity and the contact details of the Controller” section of this policy.
